

From the CHANCELLOR

February 1, 2023

Dear Horned Frog Community,

Today we proudly and officially welcome Daniel Pullin as President of Texas Christian University. In a year of meaningful Sesquicentennial moments and historic “firsts,” this marks a moment that brings me pride and anticipation for the extraordinary future ahead of TCU.

I’m certainly excited because President Daniel Pullin is a great leader of people who can help us usher in our next 150 years. But it’s much more than that; TCU’s success has always been built on the efforts of our community. President Pullin joins a team of inspired leaders here at TCU, which includes students, alumni, faculty, staff and fans across the globe. Together, he and I will work alongside other leaders who care deeply about TCU, to ensure that our community stays on our incredible journey as a world-class, values-centered university.

President Pullin’s selection for this position also signals TCU’s growth and our strategic efforts to elevate our academic profile and continue advancing innovation, in addition to the myriad operational demands of a large and complex University. Ours is not an overnight success story. It is a story of many leaders over many years, dedicating purposeful action and strategic planning to arrive at this moment, 150 years in the making.

Let’s extend a warm welcome to our new President this Friday from 9 – 10 a.m. in the newly renovated Sadler Hall for a reception. We will be hosting other opportunities to engage with President Pullin in the next few weeks, so stay tuned for more invitations.

Spring semester on TCU's campus is alive with events and programming, with Black History Month in February, Women's History Month in March, 150th celebrations, basketball games and more. As you move about the TCU campus, please stop and say hello should you see President Pullin and me, as nothing tops the connections we make with you.

Sincerely,

Victor J. Boschini, Jr.
Chancellor
